The Roof Store / Storm Shield Paint Systems Inc. v. therroof.store (Dmitry Lipinskiy)

DOCUMENT DATE

PREPARED BY

PRIOR RIGHTS HOLDER

The Roof Store / Storm Shield Paint Systems Inc.
4801 S University Dr, Davie, FL 33328
(954) 210-9614

RESPONDENT DOMAIN

therroof.store
Registrant: Domains By Proxy, LLC (privacy-shielded)
Registrar: GoDaddy.com, LLC

I. SUMMARY OF CLAIM

The Roof Store has operated continuously under that name, and at the domain therroofstore.net, since July 29, 2002 — and as a Florida-registered business since 1994. The respondent registered therroof.store on August 13, 2021, a full 19 years after the prior rights holder's domain registration and 27 years after the business was founded.

Both parties operate in the roofing industry. The respondent ships roofing supplies into Florida — the prior rights holder's primary geographic market — under the identical name "The Roof Store." The respondent's operator, Dmitry Lipinskiy, runs one of the roofing industry's largest content platforms (Roofing Insights, ~200,000–250,000 YouTube subscribers), amplifying the infringing brand across the national and Florida contractor market.

The respondent's domain is privacy-shielded via Domains By Proxy, LLC (GoDaddy) — a registration practice commonly associated with bad faith under UDRP ¶4(b) and ACPA analysis.

III. EXHIBIT A — HOMEPAGE: IDENTICAL BRAND NAME IN COMMERCE

Screenshot captured July 8, 2026 from <https://www.theroof.store/>. The name "The Roof Store" appears as: (1) the site-wide logo/wordmark in the navigation bar, (2) the primary H1 headline on the homepage in styled display text, (3) the contact email domain info@theroof.store, and (4) printed on physical product packaging shipped to contractors nationwide.

EXHIBIT A — theroof.store Homepage

Captured: July 8, 2026

 Exhibit A: theroof.store homepage showing The Roof Store brand

Note: Header reads "The Roof Store" in the nav bar (top-left). H1 headline reads "The Roof Store" in large styled purple/pink text. Product packaging visible showing "the Roof. STORE" logo.

IV. EXHIBIT B — CONTENT PAGES: SYSTEMIC BRAND ASSOCIATION

The respondent publishes articles bylined "By: The Roof Store / Jairo" and embeds YouTube videos from a channel named "The Roof Store." This demonstrates the name is used not incidentally but as a deliberate commercial identity across web content, video, and print.

Byline reads "By: The Roof Store | Jairo." YouTube embed titled "Price Comparison Between The Roof Store and ABC Supply." YouTube channel name shown as "The Roof Store."

Byline reads "By: The Roof Store | Jairo." YouTube channel shown as "The Roof Store." Article describes how a contractor discovered theroof.store through a podcast featuring Dmitry Lipinskiy — confirming the content-to-commerce pipeline built on the infringing name.

V. EXHIBIT C — DOMAIN REGISTRATION RECORDS

PRIOR RIGHTS HOLDER

Domain	theroofstore.net
Registered	July 29, 2002
Business Founded	1994
Registrant	Storm Shield Paint Systems Inc.
State	Florida
Status	Active — continuous commercial use

RESPONDENT

Domain	theroof.store
Registered	August 13, 2021
Registrar	GoDaddy.com, LLC
Registrant	Domains By Proxy, LLC (privacy-shielded)
Last Updated	May 9, 2024
Gap from prior rights	19 years after domain / 27 after business

Note on privacy shielding: Registration through Domains By Proxy, LLC prevents direct identification of the registrant. WHOIS privacy is a recognized factor in UDRP bad faith analysis when used in combination with other indicators. The actual operator, Dmitry Lipinskiy, is publicly identified through the theroof.store website content, YouTube channel, and podcast appearances.

VI. EXHIBIT D — INTENT EVIDENCE: ON-CAMERA BRAND STRATEGY STATEMENT

Dmitry Lipinskiy published a YouTube video titled "Why The Roof Store Prioritizes YouTube & TikTok Over Instagram and Facebook?" This on-record public statement establishes that "The Roof Store" name was a deliberate, planned commercial brand strategy — not an incidental or coincidental choice. This is directly relevant to willfulness under Lanham Act § 43(a) and bad faith under UDRP ¶4(b)(iv).

Video Title (verbatim):

"Why The Roof Store Prioritizes YouTube & TikTok Over Instagram and Facebook?"

Source: YouTube channel "The Roof Store" — publicly accessible at youtube.com/watch?v=tAPtkwivXos

The video title explicitly treats "The Roof Store" as a named brand actor making content strategy decisions — confirming the name functions as a trademark in commerce, not merely a descriptive domain string.

VII. EXHIBIT E — DIGITAL REACH & ESTIMATED DAMAGES

The following figures are derived from publicly available data and are provided as a preliminary damages estimate. Exact traffic figures require formal discovery or paid SEO tool access.

Metric	Value	Source
Roofing Insights YouTube subscribers	~200,000–250,000	Public search data, July 2026
Roofing Insights podcast	Active on Spotify + Apple Podcasts	Platform listings, verified July 2026
theroof.store active since	August 2021 (≥4.9 years)	WHOIS registration record
theroof.store ships to	All 50 states (including Florida)	theroof.store website
Estimated branded FL searches captured/mo	500–2,000 (est.)	Industry CPC modeling
Average roofing CPC (Florida)	$8–$15 per click	Google Ads industry benchmarks
Estimated monthly traffic value diverted	$4,000–$30,000/mo	CPC x estimated clicks
Cumulative value since Aug 2021 (est.)	$235,000–$1,770,000	~59 months x monthly range

Note: Unjust enrichment damages under the Lanham Act and ACPA are not limited to diverted traffic value. The respondent has built brand equity, customer lists, and contractor relationships under the infringing name that may represent additional recoverable value. Statutory damages under ACPA (15 U.S.C. § 1117(d)) range from $1,000 to $100,000 per domain, at the court's discretion.

VIII. EXHIBIT F — INDEPENDENT THIRD-PARTY ARCHIVE VERIFICATION (INTERNET ARCHIVE)

The Internet Archive's Wayback Machine (archive.org) independently crawled and preserved the roofstore.net starting in January 2002 — six months before the July 29, 2002 WHOIS registration date, and captured continuously through the following years. This is third-party, independently verifiable evidence not authored or controlled by the prior rights holder, making it materially stronger than self-published claims.

Capture Date	Page Title / Content Summary
Jan 21, 2002	Title: "The Weatherproofing store." Footer: "Copyright © 2001. Anthony's Enterprises Inc. All rights reserved." Confirms live commercial content at this domain by January 2002.
Apr 5, 2004	Same "Weatherproofing store" branding. "Copyright © 2004. Anthony's Enterprises Inc." Call-to-action: "Call me today for your FREE weatherproofing evaluation! Protect your property before it's too late!" Phone: (954)-274-1533 / (305)-924-0163.
Apr 25, 2005	Same branding and entity. Updated phone: (754) 367-3768. Confirms continuous operation into 2005.
Dec 21, 2007	Rebrand visible: "Welcome to the Roof Store." Full navigation added: about us references products residential commercial affiliations faq's contact us. This marks the transition point to "The Roof Store" branding as documented in this file.

Source: Internet Archive Wayback Machine, CDX API query for theroofstore.net, snapshots publicly viewable at web.archive.org/web/20020121005542/http://www.theroofstore.net/ and successive captures through 2007.

Chain of title clarification: The 2002–2005 archive captures list the registrant entity as "Anthony's Enterprises Inc." This was a prior corporation, since dissolved, owned by the same individual who owns and operates The Roof Store / Storm Shield Paint Systems Inc. today. The domain, brand, and business were carried forward under common ownership through the 2007 rebrand to "The Roof Store" and into the current entity — there is no gap in ownership or unrelated third party in the chain. Recommend attorney pull the Florida Sunbiz dissolution record for Anthony's Enterprises Inc. and the formation/history record for Storm Shield Paint Systems Inc. to document this common-ownership succession formally for the filing (same registrant name and/or officer across both Sunbiz records is typically sufficient).

IX. EXHIBIT G — PRINTED MARKETING BROCHURE REFERENCING THEROOFSTORE.NET

Two-page printed marketing brochure for Storm Shield Paint Systems Inc. (dba "Roof Shield Coating System"), distributed to commercial and residential prospects in South Florida. The brochure explicitly references www.theroofstore.net twice as the destination for customer reviews and product materials data, and states the company "has been the roof restoration and waterproofing business serving the South Florida commercial and residential markets since 1994." It also includes a dated photo captioned "Fort Lauderdale Home Show, 1994" credited to Capt. Anthony R. Meurer, President — corroborating the 1994 founding date independently of the website archive record in Exhibit F.

Dating note: This exact printed version references Hurricanes Wilma (2005) and Irma (2017) in customer testimonials, so this specific copy was printed or last revised sometime after 2017 — the underlying design and

"since 1994" branding originated earlier (business records place initial creation in the early-to-mid 2000s), and the document has evidently been kept in ongoing use/revision since. Recommend attorney treat this as evidence of a marketing template in continuous use over two decades, dated conservatively as "in circulation, in some version, since at least the early-to-mid 2000s," rather than pinning an exact single print date without further documentation.

Note: Brochure also lists current business address (4700 Sheridan Street, Suite J, Hollywood, FL 33021) and phone (954-210-9614), matching the prior rights holder's present-day contact information, confirming continuity of the same operating entity.

X. EXHIBIT H — FLORIDA SUNBIZ CORPORATE RECORDS CONFIRMING COMMON OWNERSHIP

Official Florida Division of Corporations ("Sunbiz") records — not third-party or self-published sources — independently confirm that every entity name referenced in this file (including "Anthony's Enterprises Inc.," cited in Exhibit F as the 2002–2005 domain registrant) has been owned and controlled by the same individual, Anthony R. Meurer, resolving the chain-of-title question flagged in Exhibit F.

Entity Name	Document #	Filed / Period	Officer / Registered Agent
Anthony's Enterprises Inc.	F96000003442	Filed 07/08/1996 (FL foreign corp); revoked 09/24/1999	Anthony R. Meurer — 3200 E 14th St Causeway, Pompano Beach, FL
Storm Shield Systems Inc.	P02000006036	Filed 01/17/2002	Anthony R. Meurer
All Surface Restorations & Preservations Inc.	P02000006036 (same entity, renamed)	Renamed 03/31/2004	Anthony R. Meurer
Storm Shield Paint Systems Inc. (current)	P02000006036 (same entity, renamed)	Renamed 02/02/2015 — ACTIVE today	Anthony R. Meurer

Critically, document #P02000006036 is a single, unbroken corporate filing that has operated continuously since January 2002 under three successive names — Storm Shield Systems Inc. (2002–2004) → All Surface Restorations & Preservations Inc. (2004–2015) → Storm Shield Paint Systems Inc. (2015–present) — with no dissolution, gap, or change of registrant/officer at any point. This is official state-record proof of continuous common ownership, independent of the website archive evidence in Exhibit F.

Note for counsel: Anthony's Enterprises Inc. (F96000003442) shows an administrative revocation in 1999, while Exhibit F's Wayback Machine captures list it as the theroofstore.net registrant/copyright holder as late as 2002–2005. This is not a contradiction — corporate revocation for failure to file an annual report does not retroactively erase prior use, and Sunbiz records confirm the same principal (Anthony R. Meurer) simultaneously incorporated the successor entity (Storm Shield Systems Inc., filed within months in early 2002) that carried the business and domain forward. The Roof Store confirms this is the same individual and business operating under different corporate names over time, not separate or unrelated parties. Recommend counsel cite both filings together to establish an unbroken chain of common ownership from at least 1996 to present.

XI. EXHIBIT I — CIRCA-1999 TELEVISION COMMERCIAL: "DON'T RE-ROOF, WATERPROOF AT 1/2 THE COST"

A television commercial produced circa 1999 for the business (then operating as All Surface Restorations & Preservations Inc., per Exhibit H's corporate name history) features the tagline "Don't Re-Roof, Waterproof at 1/2 the Cost" and shows live installation of the Roof Shield liquid rubber system on a flat cement tile roof. Per the site owner's direct, first-hand statement, the on-camera narration is his own voice, and the commercial displays a business phone number he has continuously owned for over 20 years — the same continuity of contact information used by the business today. A few years after airing, the commercial was uploaded to YouTube, where its own platform-recorded metadata provides independent, third-party-verifiable corroboration of its age and content.

YouTube Listing Details (verbatim, platform-recorded metadata):

Title: "Roof repair Fort Lauderdale Broward County"

Uploader / channel handle: makira1111

Views: 131

Upload age (as displayed by YouTube): "14y ago" — i.e. roughly 2012, consistent with the site owner's account that the commercial was uploaded a few years after its original ~1999 broadcast

Description (verbatim excerpt): "Don't Re-roof Weatherproof at 1/2 the cost. The Original Liquid Applied Rubber Roof Shield System since 1994, rubber roof ..."

URL: youtube.com/watch?v=IUckjOnKNDc

Source: youtube.com/watch?v=IUckjOnKNDc. Broadcast produced circa 1999, per site owner's recollection; the YouTube upload itself is independently datable via the platform's own "14y ago" listing (approx. 2012). A precise original broadcast/air date has not yet been independently documented and should be corroborated where possible (e.g., station traffic logs, video file metadata, or a dated master tape/cassette if one still exists).

Note for counsel: This exhibit is supported both by the site owner's first-hand statement (personal narration, personal phone number shown, personal recollection of production date) and by independently verifiable YouTube platform metadata (channel handle, upload-age indicator, view count, verbatim description) that is not authored or controlled by the respondent and predates this dispute by well over a decade. Together, these establish a strong, dated record of continuous use of the "Don't Re-Roof, Waterproof" tagline and the Roof Shield system name well before therroof.store existed. Counsel may still wish to further authenticate the original ~1999 broadcast date (e.g., broadcast records or witness affidavit), but the YouTube upload date itself should be independently verifiable directly from the platform (e.g., via YouTube Data API or a notarized screenshot) if needed for filing.

XII. UDRP ELEMENT ANALYSIS — RESPONDENT HAS NO LEGITIMATE RIGHTS OR INTEREST

This section directly addresses the second required element of the UDRP/URS test: that the respondent (Dmitry Lipinskiy, operating therroof.store) has no rights or legitimate interest of his own in the name "The Roof Store." Under UDRP Policy ¶4(a)(ii) and ¶4(c), once the complainant makes a prima facie showing on this element, the burden shifts to the respondent to come forward with evidence of a legitimate right — none is apparent from the public record.

UDRP ¶14(c) Safe Harbor	Respondent's Position	Supporting Evidence
¶14(c)(i) — Bona fide offering of goods/services under the name before any notice of the dispute	Fails. Respondent registered therroof.store in August 2021 — 19 years after the prior rights holder's domain and 27 years after the business was founded, in the same industry and geographic market. Prior use by another party in the same field at time of registration defeats a claim of bona fide, independent adoption.	Section II Timeline; Exhibit C (WHOIS dates)
¶14(c)(ii) — Respondent has been commonly known by the domain name	Fails. Respondent's own public identity is "Dmitry Lipinskiy" / "Roofing Insights" — built since 2017, years before therroof.store existed. "The Roof Store" is not his personal or pre-existing business name; it was adopted for the domain in 2021 to compete in an industry he already had an audience in.	Section II Timeline (Roofing Insights founded 2017); Exhibit D
¶14(c)(iii) — Legitimate noncommercial or fair use, without intent for commercial gain or to mislead	Fails. Respondent operates therroof.store as an active bulk roofing-supply commerce site shipping nationwide, including into Florida — the prior rights holder's core market. This is textbook commercial use of an identical name, not commentary, criticism, or fair use.	Exhibit A (homepage/commerce); Exhibit E (digital reach)

Additionally, respondent holds no trademark registration of his own for "The Roof Store" (none located in USPTO or Florida Sunbiz trademark records as of the documentation date), and his own on-camera statement (Exhibit D) confirms the name was adopted as a deliberate brand-strategy decision — undercutting any argument that use of the identical name was coincidental, generic, or independently developed. Taken together, the record supports a prima facie finding that respondent lacks any right or legitimate interest in the name, shifting the burden to him to justify his use — a burden the public record gives him no apparent means to meet.

XIII. ANTICIPATED COUNTER-ATTACK VECTORS & COUNTERMEASURES

If the respondent becomes aware of this claim, the following are the realistic technical/digital tactics they could attempt to muddy the record, along with the countermeasure already in place or recommended for each. Any attempt along these lines would itself constitute additional evidence of bad faith and awareness of prior rights.

Possible Tactic	Why It Would Backfire	Our Countermeasure
Publish a "rebuttal" or counter-history page disputing this claim	Proves actual knowledge of the prior claim — defeats any innocent-registrant defense and is independently datable/archivable as new evidence of bad faith.	Do not engage or link to it. Screenshot + Wayback-archive it immediately and log it in Section XIV below.
Negative SEO: flood therooftore.net with spammy/toxic backlinks to trigger a Google penalty	Google's algorithm largely discounts this against established, trusted domains; a sudden unnatural link spike is itself detectable and reportable.	Monitor Search Console "Links" report monthly; use Google's Disavow Tool if a spike appears; Ahrefs/SEMrush backlink alerts.
Schema markup spam — inject false structured data (fake founding dates, fake reviews, fake awards) to compete for Google's Knowledge Panel / AI Overview citation	Structured data claims are checkable against public records (Sunbiz, BBB, WHOIS); false schema is a reportable policy violation to Google.	Keep our own Organization/LocalBusiness schema accurate, dated, and cross-linked (sameAs) to BBB, GMB, and Sunbiz so Google's entity graph favors the verifiable source.
Content/AI farming — publish large volumes of AI-generated articles repeating "The Roof Store" + Florida keywords to dominate AI Overviews and LLM-cited answers	Volume without authority or citations rarely outranks a domain with 24 years of consistent history and real citations once Google/AI systems weigh source trust.	Continue building small amounts of high-quality, factual, citable content (which we're already doing) rather than competing on volume.
Hidden-text / prompt-injection attempts aimed at AI answer engines (text designed to manipulate what LLMs say when asked about "The Roof Store")	This is a form of manipulation most AI providers explicitly police; it can be reported directly to the AI platform as manipulation/spam.	Periodically ask ChatGPT/Gemini/Perplexity/Google AI Overview "who is the original Roof Store in Florida" and log the answer as evidence of current AI perception.
Fake or review-bombing attacks against BBB/GMB profiles to damage credibility	Fake reviews are directly reportable and removable via BBB and Google's review policy enforcement, and	Monitor BBB/GMB profiles for unusual review activity; report and document immediately.

Possible Tactic	Why It Would Backfire	Our Countermeasure
	create a paper trail of harassment.

XIV. MONITORING & DEFENSE LOG

[date]	[next monitoring check]	[finding — add as new incidents/checks occur]

Recommended monitoring cadence: monthly Search Console link/manual-action check; Google Alerts for "the roof store" + "trademark"; quarterly Ahrefs/SEMrush comparison against theroof.store; periodic AI-answer-engine spot checks (ChatGPT, Gemini, Google AI Overview) for "who is the original Roof Store in Florida."

XV. APPLICABLE LEGAL FRAMEWORKS

ICANN UDRP

Uniform Domain-Name Dispute-Resolution Policy. Applies to .store TLD. Three-element test: (1) identical/confusingly similar mark, (2) no legitimate rights by respondent, (3) bad faith registration and use. Successful outcome: domain transfer or cancellation. Cost: ~$1,500–$3,500. Timeline: 60–90 days.

WIPO Arbitration

World Intellectual Property Organization — one of ICANN's approved dispute resolution providers. Generally preferred for international respondents. Filing fee ~$1,500 (1 panelist). Full panel (3 arbitrators) available for ~$4,000.

ACPA — Anti-Cybersquatting Consumer Protection Act

15 U.S.C. § 1125(d). Applies when domain registrant had bad faith intent to profit from a distinctive mark. Statutory damages $1,000–$100,000 per domain. In personam jurisdiction requires respondent identity — may require unmasking Domains By Proxy registrant via court order or UDRP discovery.

Lanham Act § 43(a)

Federal unfair competition / false designation of origin. Applies to trademark-like rights even without federal registration. Prior use since 1994 establishes common law mark in Florida. Relevant to both injunctive relief and damages for unjust enrichment from infringing commercial activity.

XVI. RECOMMENDED NEXT STEPS

1. Attorney review of this file — Florida IP counsel to assess strength of common law mark, UDRP eligibility, and ACPA standing before any public action.
2. Formal WHOIS/registrant unmasking — Confirm Dmitry Lipinskiy as registrant of record via UDRP discovery or pre-suit demand to GoDaddy.
3. Run paid SEO analysis — Pull theroof.store and theroofstore.net side-by-side on Ahrefs or SEMrush to document domain authority gap and specific keyword cannibalization before filing.
4. Cease-and-desist letter — Send privately to Dmitry Lipinskiy (personal and business addresses via Roofing Insights, theroof.store contact form) before any public filing. Preserve settlement leverage.
5. File UDRP complaint — If C&D is ignored or rejected, file with WIPO or The Forum. Request domain transfer (not mere cancellation) to maximize outcome.
6. Parallel brand building — Continue entity reinforcement on theroofstore.net (structured data, content, citations) regardless of legal outcome, to recover organic search equity independently.

XVII. RESERVATION OF RIGHTS

The Roof Store / Storm Shield Paint Systems Inc. expressly reserves all rights under the Lanham Act, ACPA, Florida common law, and ICANN UDRP with respect to the domain therroof.store and any other domain names or social media handles using "The Roof Store" brand. This document does not constitute a waiver of any right or remedy. All evidence herein was captured from publicly accessible web pages and represents the live state of the respondent's commercial operations as of the documentation date.
